Charleston’s Fortifications of the American Revolution, 1775-1783
Main Library at 6 p.m.
Second Floor Classroom
Using bricks, tabby, palmettos and earth, the citizens of Charleston built substantial fortifications around the town in anticipation of a British attack during the Revolutionary War. Despite the preparations, the defenses were overpowered by the British Army in May 1780. Dr. Nic Butler, public historian and manager of CCPL’s Charleston Archives, offers an illustrated survey of the town’s urban fortifications and their fate after the surrender of Charleston.
A Worldwide Storytelling Celebration

TELLABRATION
Saturday, November 23

Take part in this annual worldwide event as families of all types and sizes gather on six continents to hear stories, share laughter and enjoy the art of storytelling. Activities are planned at four CCPL branches. Tellabration is presented by the Charleston Tells Storytelling Festival.

Share laughter, tears, hope, joy and wonder through the stories of these amazing performers.

Seven Sensational Stories
Otranto Regional Library at 11 a.m.
Storyteller Tim Lowry spins seven world folk tales in his signature style. Perfect for children, Lowry’s animated tales feature whimsical vocals and audience participation.

Music, Myth and Mermaids
John’s Island Regional Library at 2 p.m.
Storyteller Hawk Hurst shares tales that feature speaking animals, magic and mystery.

Tales in the Afternoon (ages 4 and older)
