

Discipline Plan

In my classroom I use a light signal. The students have a clip with their name on it. Every morning the students start off with their clip on the green light. When they break a rule they are asked to move their clip up to the yellow light. They will also have to spend a few minutes in the "thinking chair". If the student continues the misbehavior they are then moved up to the red light. This means they will lose some of their recess time. If there continues to be a problem with the student's behavior a parent/caregiver will be contacted.

Just as students have to move their clips up for breaking the rules, students can also move their clip back down by following the rules.

Each day I will write a brief note concerning your child's behavior on the Daily Report. This report will be in your child's Daily Folder. I ask that you check the folder each night, read the note, and sign your name beside it.

Should you have any questions about the discipline plan please do not hesitate to call me.
